

For over four decades, sculptor Alfred Glover has lived and worked on Cape Cod, making art in wood and salvaged aluminum. This exhibition brings Glover's whimsical, folk-art style sculptures to Heritage. He trained at the Vesper George School of Art in Boston and under Henry Hensche in Provincetown in the 1970s. His work is displayed along the East Coast, most notably at Cape Cod Museum of Art, Cahoon Museum of American Art, Highfield Hall & Gardens, Mass Audubon Long Pasture Wildlife Sanctuary, Boston Children's Hospital, Falmouth Hospital, and Cape Cod Hospital.
